SBA estimates that in 30 industries and three sub-industries for which it has proposed to increase standards more than 380 firms (an increase of 0.6 percent), not small under the existing size standards, will become small under the proposed size standards, if adopted, and therefore become eligible for SBA's contracting and financial assistance programs. This will increase the small business share of total receipts in those industries from 18.3 percent to 21.3 percent. SBA estimates that firms gaining small business status

Under SBA's 7(a) and 504 Loan Programs, SBA estimates up to about 5 7(a) and 504 loans totaling about $1 million could be made to these newly defined small

15. RIN 3245- AG60	Small Business Size Standards: Adjust Monetary Size Standards for Inflation	SBA is required by its Small Business Size Regulations at 13 CFR 121.102(c) to review the effects of inflation on its monetary standards at least once every five years. SBA has complied with these requirements by issuing an interim final rule with request for comments to adjust its monetary small business size standards (i.e., receipts, net income, net worth, and financial assets), for the effects of inflation that have occurred since the last inflation adjustment, which was effective August 18, 2008.	Completed	The Final rule was published in the Federal Register on January 25, 2016 (81 FR 3949)	No	No	N/A	The interim final rule with request for comments was published in the Federal Register on June 12, 2014 (79 FR 33647), with an effective date of July 14, 2014. The comment period closed on August 11, 2014.	The most significant benefit of this interim final rule for small businesses is that it will enable businesses that have exceeded size standards simply due to inflation to regain eligibility for Federal small business assistance programs. SBA estimates that this rule will enable approximately 8,500 firms in industries and sub-industries with receipts based size standards and about 170 firms in industries with assets based size standards, currently above SBA's size standards, to gain small business status and become eligible for SBA financial assistance and small business procurement
